

Lions 100 –

Targeting future goals based on the success of the past

9 October, 10:45 – 12:15

Convention Hall

International President 2009/10 Eberhard Wirfs, MD 111

Summary:

Future success must be rooted in a tradition.

This is and always has been the basis on which the honorary officers of Lions Club International have been working for nearly one hundred years.

This commitment shapes the organisation and its activities at a global, continental, national and regional level, crossing boundaries and binding people together in the spirit of WE SERVE. It is a commitment to hands-on humanitarian support, pushing away barriers that might arise where people of different religious, cultural and social backgrounds work come together.

The history of the Lions Club organisation is a success story that extends over nearly one hundred years. Its history reflects the activities of many generations of Lions and provides the foundation for a future with a strong identity of our association.
